

Triple Eight Professional's WrightKnife Pocket Tool

Created by famed knife designer Kirk Rexrote, the WrightKnife is called just that for a good reason. Designed with Kirk's keen eye toward performance, the WrightKnife's more conventional blade design is, well — simply the right knife for most of your cutting chores. Kirk lives in Wright, Wyoming, so the match was perfect! Like every PocketTool model, it's also small enough to take with you everywhere — but big enough to deliver the goods.

The innovative opening method for the anodized scales is secure — and fast. The serious cutting edge and fine point, along with a secure pocket clip, puts the WrightKnife from Triple Eight Professional in the “big knife” category — in a tiny package!

Anyone who needs an elegant gentleman's (or lady's?) knife, with big-knife performance, will see the advantages of the WrightKnife Pocket Tool. Engraveable and convenient to carry, Triple Eight's WrightKnife is only $34.95.

Remember: Have a knife!
